

JAPS FAILED TO WIN FIGHT

Repulsed Russians Attack with Gain of Their Advanced Positions...Fighting Heavy.

VICTORY GOES TO GENERAL OYAMA

Kuropatkin's Troops Are Backward in Taking Advantage of the Openings Offered Them for Brilliant Advance.

[Special by Scripps-McLain.]

London, Oct. 20.—The complete repulse of the Russian attack and a gain of about fifteen miles of ground seem to be the net result of the battle of the Shakhie to the Japanese, who again failed, as at Liao-Yang, to follow up their victory with a crushing blow.

Opinions, however, differ as to whether the present situation indicates a lull or the end of the battle, none of the dispatches enabling a definite assertion.

A correspondent with Gen. Oku in an undated dispatch says that owing to the slowness of their advance the Japanese failed to cut off the Russian retreat, which was conducted with great skill.

Jap Cavalry Is Effective.

The cavalry of the Japanese left crossed the Hun river, thus preventing the Russian flanking movement. They captured batteries and did excellent work. They captured maps showing the Russian retreats were prearranged and indicating all the places where stands were to be made.

The Japanese center and right armies held their line throughout, working forward together excellently. The whole Japanese force now holds a line that practically is the same as at the beginning of the battle, but fifteen miles further north.

The armies now are resting and probably will not move for several days. A correspondent with the Russian center telegraphs that the Japanese apparently are satisfied with having stopped the Russian advance and have brought their own lines to the Shakhie river.

Orders Bridges Destroyed.

A Tokio dispatch says that Kuropatkin has ordered all bridges across the Hun river destroyed, thus forcing his men to fight to the south of it.

The Standard's correspondent with Gen. Kuropatkin says the decisive defeats have seriously weakened the morale of the Russian troops. It was evident in later phases of the fighting that they were increasingly reluctant to stand up against the Japanese infantry. It will be some time before they can make good their terrible losses.

Battle Near Touchien — A Large Amount of Supplies Also Lost—Over Thirty Thousand Killed.

[Special by Scripps-McLain.]

Tokio, Oct. 20.—It is stated by the war department that the Japanese left army captured near Lang Touchien with ammunition carts, five thousand rifles, five thousand rounds of field gun ammunition, seventy-five thousand rounds of rifle ammunition, besides clothing, tents and other war munitions. According to full reports obtainable here the total of Japanese casualties is in the neighborhood of 8,000 killed and wounded. It is believed that the Russian losses will reach 25,000. Kuropatkin has been reinforced by 30,000 men. The opposing armies are devoting all their time to burying their dead and caring for the wounded and planning additional movements.

LIBERATE MOVEMENT IN RUSSIA

Poles, Finns and Jews Organize Against Official Oppression.

Vienna, Oct. 20.—It appears from reliable reports that the czar's subject nationalities are extending their revolutionary activities in many directions. The Poles no longer prosecute a national policy, but are aiding the general liberal movement of Europe. They have established periodicals and journals in the interests of this phase of their scheme. They are circulating millions of pamphlets of a similar character. Polish separatists abound in Russia and in every other European country. They have powerful organizations in England and the United States. The national headquarters are at Rapperswil, Switzerland.

PAY PREMIUM FOR CHILDREN

Unique Company Is Launched by Cultured Boston—Novel Insurance Idea.

GIVES NEST EGG FOR THE INFANT

Premiums Ranging From Three Hundred to Five Hundred Dollars for Every Child Born to Insured Parent.

[Special by Scripps-McLain.]

Boston, Mass., Oct. 20.—In order that ample preparations may be made for the visit of the stock in any household, and to make such calls welcome, prominent women of this city, noted for their work along the line of advancement of the sex, have incorporated the American Birth Insurance company.

By taking advantage of this unique scheme, a mother, after the payment of an initiation fee and certain monthly dues, may at the birth of each child receive from $200 to $500.

Business will be begun by the company as soon as the names of 500 members are filed with the commissioner of insurance, together with dues of $3 each. It is said that the requisite number of members has been secured.

Woman Is President.

The president of the American Birth Insurance company is Mrs. Estelle M. H. Merrill of Boston, and secretary and treasurer, Miss Emma Meeker.

On the advisory board are Miss Mary A. Livermore, who is so well known to every American; Mrs. Martha Dyer, Jr., noted for her philanthropic work, now president of the Charity and Wintergreen clubs; Mrs. Mary E. Parmelee, vice president of the Mothers and Fathers' club of Boston; Dr. Mary E. Jones, president of the Ladies' Physiological institute of Boston; Mrs. Agnes C. Fall of Malden, who is said to have received one of the largest retainers ever paid a woman attorney; Dr. C. Patterson of Boston, and Marian A. McBride of Arlington.

Premiums Are Graded. Initiation fee is $3, annual dues $1, and there is a monthly assessment of $3. After the tenth payment if a living child is born the mother receives $200; after the nineteenth, $300; after the twenty-eighth, $400, and after the thirty-seventh, $500. It is stipulated, however, that eighteen months must elapse between the birth of each child in any one family.

The great object as expressed by the president and in its literature is to regulate the birth as far as possible and to provide for a parturient thought, rather than chance, as is almost universal at the present time.

"If we can but accomplish this object," said Mrs. Merrill, "we can remake the United States and solve one of the greatest sociological questions of the age."

Mrs. Merrill said they had applications for membership from as far away as Africa and India.

CASSODAY ANNOUNCES HIS OPINION OF THE FACTION

Says That the Use of the Old State Central Committee by La Follette Is Unlawful.

[Special to The Gazette.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 20.—Chief Justice Cassoday today filed his opinion in the Wisconsin republican factional case, holding that the old La Follette state central committee was not empowered to sit judicially on the controversy or the regularity of the election in the Wisconsin statutes. "Provisional of a controversy over the regularity of rival conventions is to be determined by the committee calling the convention," he declares, "that the old La Follette committee cannot be disqualified by reason of factional preference or bias. Its decisions from the first decision that the court has full and complete jurisdiction to determine this political matter and that the national committee action against La Follette delegates at large to the national convention could have no effect as to determining the regularity of the Wisconsin state ticket."

giving the reasons for the decision as filed Oct. 6th in favor of the La Follette ticket, having the regular republican place on the official ballot. The opinions are voluminous, containing 18,000 words. Justice Marshall emphasized the plain provision in the Wisconsin statutes: "Provisional of a controversy over the regularity of rival conventions is to be determined by the committee calling the convention," he declares, "that the old La Follette committee cannot be disqualified by reason of factional preference or bias. Its decisions from the first decision that the court has full and complete jurisdiction to determine this political matter and that the national committee action against La Follette delegates at large to the national convention could have no effect as to determining the regularity of the Wisconsin state ticket."

MUST DEFEAT MICHIGAN OR OR TAKE LAST PLACE IN THE WEST.

The Game at Madison Between the Wolverines and Badgers Promises Rare Sport.

[Special to The Gazette.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 20.—"Wisconsin must defeat Michigan in a week from Saturday." This is the determination of the Badger coaches and players, and the slogan at practice, having taken up the slogan. A particular importance to football history at Madison attaches to the game with the wolverines. If Michigan defeats Wisconsin decisively it will shake the graduate coach system at Wisconsin to the roots and if the season be finished by the Badgers in lower than second or third place in the championship column it will mean the return to the system of the professional head coach, with perhaps a substantial faction among the athletically inclined students in favor of returning to the old system and enjoining a veto on Wisconsin's victory over Michigan, judging from the daily work at Camp Randall.

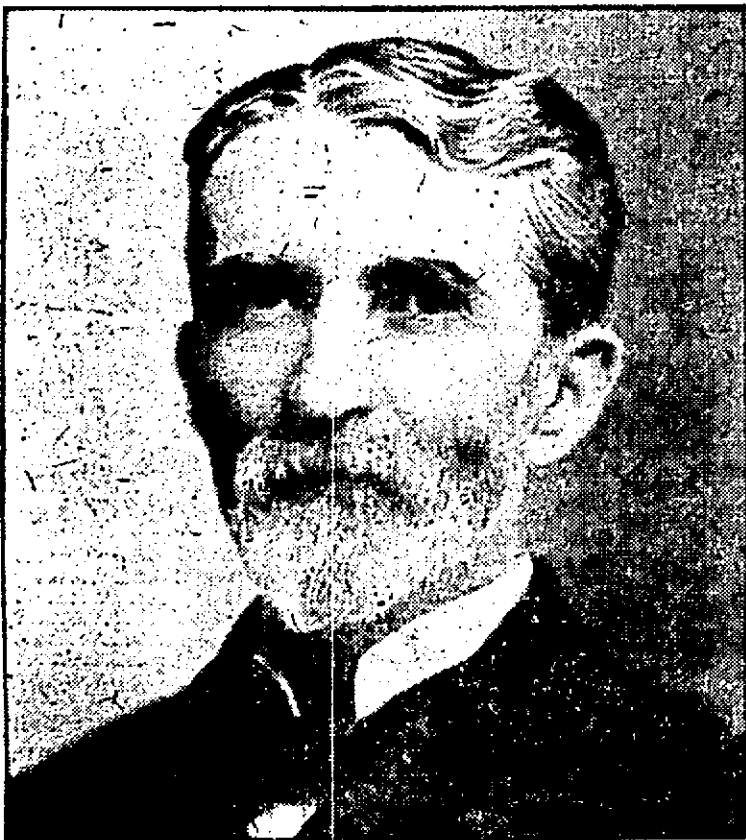

versities in favor of the graduate coach system before permanently abandoning professorialism in the department of athletic instruction. Coach McCormack of North-Western, it is said, could be secured for Wisconsin next year. Whenever mentioned here McCormack is highly praised. It is mentioned that at the Methodist university he is confronted with mediocre material, limited equipment and poor spirit and encouragement on the part of student body and faculty, but has shown, nevertheless, marked ability as a coach even under unpromising circumstances. At Madison, with abundance of material, ample facilities and a favoring faculty and enthusiastically "supporting" student community, it is declared he would turn out a champion eleven. The situation at present is seemingly favorable to a Wisconsin victory over Michigan, judging from the daily work at Camp Randall.

SKETCH OF THE CANDIDATE

Gov. Scofield was born in Clearfield county, Pennsylvania, March 28, 1842. He received a common school education in his native state, and in 1861 enlisted in Company K, Eleventh Pennsylvania reserves. He rose rapidly from the ranks and was successively promoted to be corporal and sergeant. April 15, 1863, he became a lieutenant, and after the battle of South Mountain was made a captain on account of conspicuous service on the field. He participated in all the battles and marches of his regiment up to the battle of the Wilderness, when he was taken prisoner. He was reported dead, his friends mourned him, and he thus had the opportunity of reading his own obituary. He was a prisoner 20 months, being confined during that time in twelve different southern prisons. He was released at Wilmington, 1865, and breveted major.

He came to Wisconsin in 1865, first serving on an engineering corps, then becoming a member of the Scofield & Arnold Lumber company. He was elected state senator from the first district in 1866. During the thirty-eighth session he was chairman of the committee on unenclosed lands. In 1896 he was elected governor by the greatest majority in the history of the state, receiving 254,981 votes against 169,257 for Willis C. Silverthorn, democrat. During the Spanish-American war Gov. Scofield showed great executive ability in preparing the Wisconsin national guard for the field, and gave his personal attention to the welfare of the troops while they were in the volunteer service of the United States army. He was reelected governor in 1898, receiving 172,137 votes against 125,353 for Hiram Wilson Sawyer, democrat.

CONGREGATIONAL
CONVENTION WORKBY REVEREND DENISON, WHO AT-TENDED AT DES MOINES.

LABOR QUESTION DISCUSSED

Work To Be Done, Not Theology, Was General Subject—Polygamy Dealt With.

At the suggestion of the representative of the Gazette, I am glad to write of a few matters in connection with the National Council of Congregational churches at Des Moines, Iowa, which may have general interest. There were over four hundred delegates present from all parts of the United States, besides many visitors. A representative from the English churches brought their greetings in person, a pastor from the Congregational churches in Bohemia came to speak for them and letters were read from the churches in Canada and Australia.

Pass on Polygamy.
The council dealt with several very important matters. Its utterance on polygamy was spoken of in the Des Moines papers as a model of succinct and conclusive statement. It is as follows:

"The attitude of the Congregational churches toward the subject is the same now that it always has been. It is one of open and unqualified hostility. In every right way by individuals, the church and the nation, we believe that polygamy ought to be opposed until in all the land none are left either to practice or to defend it. To this end we pledge our influence and our endeavor."

The committee on labor appointed by the previous council three years ago, reported regret of the strife in the labor world and urged that all possible be done to promote better Christian relations and a truer understanding of each other between men in the ranks of labor and capital. The committee urged that the churches seek to keep closer to the laborers and above all that they stand for righteous principles and for the respect of man for man in the industrial world, each acknowledging that both are personalities, have similar duties and privileges toward one another. The committee suggested that, "The spirit of the narrative by 'The Worker' should be checked, and industrial organizations, both of employees and employers, should become, as they may become, strong forces in behalf of law and order."

Both Sides Presented.
The committee was retained in service and will continue to try to get from both employers and workmen's organizations and leaders such expressions as shall best promote social welfare and guide the churches in their endeavor to do their duty in the work of industrial betterment. The council was addressed by representatives of both labor and capital and a splendid spirit of brotherhood and hope was manifested by all.

Unity of Church.
The question of church unity was an important one. The union of the Congregational, the United Brethren and the Methodist Protestant bodies is being seriously considered and will probably be ultimately brought about.

There is a feeling on the part of some, especially of the younger men, that the business of the church in handling its money for benevolent purposes, is not as wisely managed as a modern business enterprise would be. There is no question of course of the misuse of funds, but merely the thought that the church does not keep up as closely to the times as it might in the matter of using the late business methods. Some are opposed to any change at present, but certain improvements particularly in the matter of managing the different branches of missionary work from one office instead of six or seven is sure to come soon. The meeting was full of hopefulness, and the expectation of a revival in the spiritual life of the world soon to come, indeed coming now, filled the air.

Hospitably Received.
Iowa is a beautiful state, excepting only Southern Wisconsin, as beautiful agricultural country as can be seen anywhere. The Des Moines people were royal in their hospitality and everything possible had been arranged for the council's convenience and enjoyment. The city people seemed to appreciate the significance of what the church is trying to do in the world today—though possibly I ought to except one man who stopped another on the street and asked: "Can you tell me what is going on here? I never saw so many long coats before." But there were more long coats than long faces.

Work Not Theology.
Little was said about theology and much about the work to be done, which is surely a sign of hope. Little was said, too, by the way of exalting the Congregational denomination and much was said in emphasis of the Christian church and of the common duties of kindness, righteousness and helpfulness in which all Christians have a share. At the same time there was a very clearly prevalent conviction that the Congregational churches ought and would go forward and do with all their might the particular part of Christian duty which falls to them.

Memorial to Roosevelt.
A memorial was sent, by unanimous vote, to the President of the United States urging that it be the policy of this government to vigorously promote in all good ways the cause of peace among the nations of the earth. The instinct of independence is still very strong in the Congregational churches. The people have all the authority they desire and while the need of a closer fellowship and unity between the different churches of the denomination was recognized, there was manifest a strong determination that nothing should interfere with the old, puritan policy of according the largest possible liberty to every church and individual, relying on the leadership of the spirit of God in each loyal and willing heart to guide the church aright.

The entire crop shows a gain of 3.3 per cent in condition, as compared with the corresponding condition a year ago, and the general average has improved by 1.9 per cent, over that recorded for September 1st of this year. As compared with last year on the date of October 1st the Wisconsin crop has gained six points and as compared with the figures of September 1st, has gained seven points.

THIEVES ARE BUSY WITH THE FARMERS' WAGONS

Frank McKewan Loses Keg of Paint Taken from His Rig on Dodge Street.

Petty thieves appear to be engaged in a systematic business of filching robes and whips and other articles from farmers' wagons left in the neighborhood of Dodge and River streets. Frank McKewan, who lives south of the city is one of the recent victims, having been separated from fifty pounds of cold water paint and a valuable whip. The police are keeping a sharp lookout for the offenders.

MARKET TALK OF
EASTERN MARKETLetter From New York Discusses the Situation in the New York City Exchanges.

New York, October 17, 1904.—Wheat.—The wheat market after a little further irregularity early in the week turned much more active and firmer as a result of light weight wheat cutting down the milling valuation of a measured bushel; and covering of December shorts on a revival of milling demand and scarcity of grades for delivery on contract. Prices for the week are about 3 to 4 cents net higher.

The movement has kept fairly well up to the average with Northwestern receipts above last year's while the movement in the Southwest has hardly shown the falling off expected. Mills, however, seem to have been selling flour a little more liberally, and as a result have bought wheat more freely while at the lowest level of the week there were indications of returning export demand with a few loads worked at the exports. No change has taken place in crop estimates except that the government's report published earlier in the week indicated a harvest rather above the figures suggested by last month's report, though this factor has been completely offset since then by the reports of light weight. The official estimate of the French crop places it about 70,000,000 bushels behind the ordinary annual requirements of that country, but advances from the Argentine indicate an increased acreage and favorable crop conditions while Russian shipments last week were especially heavy and there was a large increase in the world's visible supply according to Bradstreet's.

In some ways the advance of the past week must be considered as speculative, owing to the fact that it has arisen chiefly from the necessities of December shorts. Many of these shorts have covered, but it seems to us that an outstanding interest still exists, the covering of which may lead to some further advance before there is any material decline. But we think, nevertheless, that the upward movement has been too rapid to be permanent and should it extend further we would be inclined to short May for a turn.

Corn.—Corn has worked upward very sharply in sympathy with wheat. The government report placing the crop at practically 2,500,000,000 bushels acted as a check to the upward movement which began as a result of the strong advance in wheat. For the week, prices are about a cent a bushel higher. We do not hear much talk as yet of how the new crop is likely to grade up. There is evidently going to be plenty of corn, for which, however, there will be a very active demand, and at present prices we cannot feel that the market is a safe for anything more than a turn. On any sharp break we should buy, for with wheat so susceptible to bullish news and manipulation upturns in sympathy are likely to be frequent. Oats have sold off sharply owing to the excellent crop report and close the week from a cent to a cent and a half lower.

Provisions.—There has been further liquidation and decline arising out of a freer hog movement; less anxiety as to the cash position of hog products, and the weakness of coarse grains. The long interest must have been considerably reduced by this time and we think purchases might be made at the decline.

Coffee.—There has been continued liquidation in coffee which so far as we are at present able to determine arises from holders becoming tired of carrying their commitments in a flat market. The fact that Brazilian markets have been a little easier has naturally aided in depressing prices, but would hardly explain the decline, of from 20 to 25 points for the week.

Two private cables have been received regarding the prospects for the coming crop, and these claim that the October flowering does not promise well and that the coming crop will undoubtedly be smaller than the one now marketing, which it is believed was over one-half in slight early this month. Receipts at Brazilian points have been running up very close to the Karle Krusche estimate, which, of course, was known early in the month and presumably discounted.

Europe has been one of the biggest sellers in the local market, apparently against purchases abroad and in Brazil. The offerings from this source as well as the liquidation of local long accounts have been taken by very strong interests with much of the buying for the account of the same interests who were prominent in buying coffee just before the big advance of last winter. Whether or not coffee will sell much higher undoubtedly depends on the present flowering; reports as to this are likely at any time to be bad, although the easier tendency of the Brazilian markets might argue otherwise. At any rate we don't think coffee can harm the purchaser around these prices very much, and we would not be at all surprised if this break would furnish the cheapest buying level until after the first of January. Yours very truly,

TRY TO ORGANIZE A FARMERS' UNION

Federated Trades Are Sending Out
Literature—Attempt to Unionize School Teachers Also.

Efforts to organize the farmers of Wisconsin into a labor union pursuant to a resolution passed by the last convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, are now under way and will be pushed throughout the winter months, a time when the farmer can give more attention to literature and the consideration of propositions coming to him. No direct appeal to join a union is made at present, the officers of the federation believing it best first to prepare the way for the scheme which is to be presented later on.

A pamphlet setting forth the advantages of organization for farmers has been sent out. This is to be followed by another and larger edition until a copy has been placed in the hands of every farm owner, and farm worker. This pamphlet is to be followed by others, each becoming more aggressive until the plan is fully outlined. Organizers will then be sent out.

"We are going slowly in this work of organizing the farmer," said Frank J. Weber, general organizer of the federation recently. "We are aware that the work will be more difficult than with laboring men who usually are prepared for forming a union, but no step will be missed in bringing about the consummation of a farmers' union."

Another circular calling attention to the benefits of organized efforts to ameliorate present conditions is being prepared by the Wisconsin Federation of Labor for circulation among public teachers. It is the purpose to get the pamphlet in the hands of every teacher before the next annual meeting of the State Teachers' association. During this convention it is believed that the first steps can be taken to organize the teachers of the public schools under the jurisdiction of the federation. Efforts made earlier in the spring to bring about an organization met with little encouragement.

Smart Little Runabout Suit

The mixed woollens are especially smart for those practical little suits for everyday wear on which Dame Fashion smiles. A universal becoming design is that pictured, where the coat and skirt both represent the new correct length. The material is one of the new mixed more-dore browns, with a little fleck of burnt orange and one of black. The coat has fitted back and sides, and semitrimmed fronts, with a single dart. Handsome bullet bottoms in royal copper make the fastening, and there is a military collar in burnt orange velvet, braided in brown and a fleck of gold. The skirt is 11-gored, each alternate gore trimmed with handsome fancy braid and finished with a brown velveteen binding, which adds much both to the life and the style of the skirt.

P. C. Coheen of the Fond du Lac way freight is laying off, being relieved by A. L. Wilcox.

Engineer James Clark left for Fond du Lac this noon to take his run from there.

Six stock trains passed through the city last night.

The Janesville section men who left here yesterday morning on the work train were engaged in picking up scrap iron between Harvard and Kenosha.

Although the Western Passenger association voted down a proposition to make reduced rates to tourists to Colorado during the winter season, the direct lines from Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City have agreed to put the tourist rates into effect to Colorado, coming into effect on Nov. 1 and continuing them until June 1, when the specially low summer excursion rates will be inaugurated. There was a big decrease last summer in the number of tourists visiting Colorado, mainly because of the St. Louis fair. The round trip rate from Chicago will be $47.

The annual meeting of the American Association of General Passenger and Ticket Agents is in session at Old Point Comfort.

MESSRS. MCGIFFIN & FIFIELD
HAVE FORMED A PARTNERSHIP

In Tobacco Business and Leased the Warehouse of Sylvester & Sons.

H. S. McGiffin and ex-Alderman Frank Fifield have formed a partnership in the leaf tobacco business and leased for a period of several years the large three-story warehouse of Sylvester & Sons of New York, opposite the North-Western depot. Mr. McGiffin, after being with the Sylvester people for many years, has severed his connection with the firm to enter into business for himself. He has been in the leaf tobacco business for thirty years and is thoroughly familiar with the field. Mr. Fifield is one of Janesville's enterprising business men and the new firm will undoubtedly meet with deserved prosperity.

FOOT BADLY CUT
BY BROKEN SOLE

Locomotive Wheel Passes Over Fireman Hendricks' Shoe, Resulting in Queer Injury.

Near Johnsons Creek Tuesday while stepping from one engine to another Fireman Hendricks of the North-Western road from Fond du Lac was the victim of a queer and painful accident. In some manner he slipped, one foot going under the wheel of the locomotive. The sole of the shoe was run over edgewise, putting it in such a manner that it cut the bottom of his foot and pinched the whole extremity. He will be unable to work for several weeks. Mr. Hendricks is well-known here and was firing for Engineer A. L. Wilcox of this city at time of the accident.

ison Program of the Southern Wisconsin Teachers' Association Meeting Next Month.

At Baraboo on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 4 and 5, will be held a meeting of the Southern Wisconsin Teachers' association, which will be attended from this city by Superintendent H. C. Buell who is also on the program for an address on High School and College Education from the High School Point of View. The features of the meeting will be a lecture by the superintendent of the Chicago schools, E. G. Cooley, four important topics with their subdivisions for discussion led by recognized authority, and the Rural School Problem, discussed by O. J. Kern, C. P. Cary, and others. Superintendent Kern from Rockford has a reputation that is national in these questions and is known to a large number of people in this vicinity, having frequently conducted farmers' institutes in Milton. Prof. A. A. Upham of Whitewater Normal who was one of the conductors at the teachers' institute here this last summer will have for a topic "What Other People Are Doing for the Betterment of the Country Schools." Hon. C. P. Cary, state superintendent, will talk on "The Situation." The address of the section meeting on elementary education is C. F. Hill of Whitewater who has frequently conducted teachers' institutes in the city, and the opening address of the session will be given by Miss Martha Dockery of Richland Center, well-known to the teachers of Rock county. Miss Winifred Edsall of the County Training school of Richland Center, who received her training in teaching in Whitewater under Superintendent Hill, is also on the program. C. F. Hill of Whitewater, director of manual training in the city schools of Whitewater will speak on "Manual Training in the County Schools," and D. O. Hubbard of Racine, father-in-law of Mrs. C. V. Hubbard of this city, will address the meeting on "The Batavia Plan for Individual Instruction from the Standpoint of a Visitor at Batavia."

WANTS TO CHECK IMMIGRATION

Israel Zangwill Wants Jews to Find Home Outside of America. New York, Oct. 20.—Israel Zangwill, the author and playwright, accompanied by his bride, who was Edith Ayton, the English authoress, arrived here on the Teutonic from Liverpool. Mr. Zangwill comes primarily in the interest of the Zionist movement. "I want to enlist the sympathy of the leading Jews of America in the movement," he said. "We must stem the tide of Jewish immigration that is pouring into this country and the Jews must have a place in which to locate. America does not want any more. It is already saturated. A warning has already been received that if many more Jews come here an anti-Semitic feeling may be aroused." Mr. Zangwill will deliver several lectures in this country.

CONVICTS BADLY CUT A GUARD

Attempt to Escape and Keeper Engaged Three in Fight. Michigan City, Ind., Oct. 20.—Lying in his home suffering with several knife wounds, Joseph Allen, a guard at the prison here, is thought to be in a dangerous condition. Allen attempted to suppress an outbreak in which three desperate criminals made an effort to escape. The officer gave chase and overtook the fleeing prisoners, all of whom fought desperately with him. A knife in the hands of a life prisoner inflicted the injuries. Assistance from fellow guards saved the life of Allen. The convicts who figured in the affray are desperate and hardened criminals.

Death for Degenerates.

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 20.—At the session of the national prison congress an animated discussion was caused by Dr. Henry Hatch of this city advocating the infliction of death upon degenerates as a means of preventing the spread of degeneracy.

Turkman in Smashup.

New York, Oct. 20.—Michael F. Dwyer, famous for years among turkmen, narrowly escaped being killed while on his way to the Jamaica track. A carriage in which he was riding was smashed by a trolley car.

Big Loss in Tobacco Fire.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 20.—Fire in factory No. 2 of the R. A. Patterson Tobacco company caused damage estimated by President Patterson at $100,000. Ample insurance is distributed among a number of companies.

Morgan Will Shoot Game.

London, Oct. 20.—J. Pierpont Morgan has leased for five years, for game shooting, two estates near Newmarket, one of which belonged to the late duke of Cambridge.

DOING THEIR DUTY.

Scores of Jansville Readers Are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys. To alter the blood is the the kidneys' duty. When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick. Backache and many kidney ills Jansville people endorse our claim.

Urinary trouble, diabetes, Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all.

L. Lawrence of 408 S. Franklin St., engineer at the Jansville Electric Light Co., says: "Seven years ago I injured my back by falling through a bridge near Afton into the Rock river. I was on a traction engine, its weight broke through and the whole thing went into the stream. Since that time my back has ached by spells sometimes very severely. If I caught cold it settled in my kidneys and if I brought a strain on my back lifting the result was a bad backache and sharp twinges of pain in my loins. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills and after I used them I was free from backache. I am in better health than any time since falling through the bridge."

GOLD AND THE TARIFF.

At the present moment, says the Philadelphia North American, we have in circulation in this country of money of all kinds about 2600 million dollars. The paper and silver currency rests upon and obtains its value and effectiveness from the store of gold that we possess. The gold in the national treasury and in circulation in September, 1904, was $41 million dollars. Thus there was about one dollar of gold for every three dollars of general currency. But the gold has another burden to carry and to impart value to—bank credit. The precise figures representing this bank credit are not available, but beyond question they amount upward far into thousands of millions of dollars. To retain in the country the stock of gold is, therefore, manifestly a matter of the first importance. No well-informed man needs to be told that if the metal should go abroad in large quantities the American people would encounter financial distress and industrial prostration.

If past experience has any lesson for this nation, it is that the one thing that will send gold away in great sums is large reductions of the duties upon imports—in other words, the kind of tariff reformation to which the democratic party is solemnly pledged.

What is the experience referred to?

In 1846 and in 1847 this same democratic party, in control of national legislation, put into operation tariffs which went as far as the party dared to go in the direction of outright free trade. The first of these tariffs was enacted almost simultaneously with the discovery of gold in California—the gold that was needed more than any one thing to promote and expand the industrial forces of a nation that had never possessed anything like a sufficient quantity of real money.

If the protective system as the nation knows it now had been at that time in existence, there can be no doubt that all, or nearly all, the gold unearthed in California would have remained here to benefit our own people. But, with our ports wide open to European manufacturers, the country was flooded with European goods, which we might have made at home, and practically the entire mass of California gold was hurried across the Atlantic to pay for them. In the meantime, the American people, instead of employing gold for currency, as they might have done, were compelled to use rag money of such flimsiness and variability of value as men of the present generation can hardly understand. In the meantime, also, the revenues of the federal government, deprived of custom duties in sufficient measure, fell so far below the necessary expenditures that the treasury was obliged to borrow money, for which (so low had the national credit fallen) it was compelled to pay 12 per cent.

The inevitable result of all this blundering and folly was that in 1857, with the democrats still in power, the nation was involved in one of the worst panics recorded in its history—a panic in which private business and public credit were shaken to their foundations.

In a different degree, but in precisely the same manner, the same thing happened during Grover Cleveland's second administration. In 1892, the year before he came into office, our total exports were 1016 million dollars. In 1895, two years afterward, with the Wilson tariff in operation, the exports fell to 793 million dollars. Thus, we sold less material to foreigners, and for what we bought we must pay more gold, instead of paying in produce.

Gold began again to flow to Europe in a great stream. In 1895, for the first time in many years, the expenses of the government again exceeded the income; the public debt was increased from 555 millions in 1892 to 847 millions in 1896, and before Mr. Cleveland had been in office two years there was a panic and prostration of industry precisely like that which brought misery and ruin to the nation in 1857.

The number is small of the persons who can remember the disasters of 1857. Millions of living men know from observation what happened in 1893. The younger men, who have come into adult years since 1893, will do well to study the complete history of that time, of destruction and distress, and the causes of the trouble.

It is hard to believe that intelligent Americans, who know the facts will consent to make a third experiment along the line of the democratic theories and in the direction of another exodus of gold, another panic and another period of business disaster.

The Dingley tariff went into operation in 1897, and in the six years following its adoption we sold to foreign countries of our products $614 million dollars' worth more than we bought from them. This enormous (and still increasing) balance of trade in our favor, and this alone, keeps the gold here, and adds continually to the dimensions of our stock. There will never be another gold drain from our shores to Europe while we have a good protective tariff; but no man can safely assert, in the light of the facts presented above, that such a tariff as Judge Parker and his friends are pledged to will not leave us without enough gold for the safety of our financial situation.

SENTIMENT CHANGING.

Republican sentiment throughout the state is changing and with the change La Follette's is weakening. Political history is making rapidly, and in the events that are transpiring every day the fact is becoming more generally recognized that the La Follette state ticket is republican only in name.

The ticket is declared regular by the supreme court on a law which recognizes neither justice nor equity, but this does not make it a republican ticket. Bryan captured the name of the democratic party but this did not make him a democrat, and his following has long been known as Bryanites.

Every act of the governor, during the present campaign, has been un-republican. The convention which nominated him was composed of delegates elected largely by democratic caucus votes. When he left the convention, which represented the highest tribunal of the party, he left it in defiant mood, and this same rebellious spirit was manifest while the decision of the supreme court was pending.

He fought the nomination of Congressman Babcock in the Third district last spring, and is now doing all in his power to defeat his election by supporting a democrat. More than this, he is opposing every republican nominee in the state, who is not in sympathy with him.

There is only one republican state ticket in the field and that is the ticket headed by Governor Scofield.

If you want to vote the prohibition state ticket and the balance of the republican ticket, throw the knob from left to right in front of republican ticket, then cut out the name on state ticket by turning small knobs in front of each name back to left, and in the row just above turn knobs in same column from left to right, swing back large lever at top and you have voted.

The democratic party is obliged to look for an issue ten thousand miles from home, under the title imperialism, which properly interpreted in this case means civilization. The republican party is not only progressive, but humane, and the Philippine Islands, as well as Cuba, are fortunate in finding such an ally.

How's that for anarchy on American soil?

The only mistake made at the democratic state convention was that La Follette was not endorsed as the party candidate. He will receive more democratic than republican votes, and they will not all come from the Bryan-Hearst element.

The re-establishment of the canton is recommended by army officers in the field. These men are in position to know more about it than people who never saw a barracks, and whose only ambition is impractical reform.

The Scofield ticket will be known on the ballot as the National Republican ticket. To vote this ticket vote the straight republican ticket, then cut out the La Follette state ticket and cut in the Scofield ticket. When you have done this you have voted a straight republican ticket.

The conservative republican element of the state and the same element in the democratic party ought to be able to defeat the primary law. The state has no use for it.

Governor La Follette aspires to succeed Senator Spooner in 1908. He might not object to the presidency.

The place to study political economy today is in the field and factory and not in text books. Theories are all right but experience gained from practical knowledge is better.

It don't cost the tax payers anything to support the game wardens but there would be $30,000 more in the treasury if this army of political grafters was abolished.

Congressman Cooper heard from Mr. Jeffris in Racine and Kenosha. The republicans of the district are not satisfied with his attitude on state issues.

Don't forget to vote no on the primary law by turning indicator to left.

The voting machines have come to stay. They are more simple than the paper ballot.

A good time to let well enough alone. People are prosperous and happy.

Coal dust is the latest cure for consumption.

ON ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Hepp Entertained Party of 'Young People' at Supper Last Night.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Hepp observed their seventeenth wedding anniversary last evening by entertaining a small company of young people at their home on Prospect avenue. Frank Wilson of Sioux City is visiting in the city until Saturday, and was the guest of honor. Supper was served at six o'clock and the evening was devoted to music and games. The young people present were niece and nephews of Mrs. Hepp, all of whom were present at the wedding seventeen years ago.

HAYES BROS. GET CONTRACT FOR GRADING LINDEN AVENUE

Street Assessment Committee Found Their Bid Lowest of Three Submitted.

The street assessment committee met this afternoon and opened the bids submitted by P. W. Ryan, Wm. Hayes & J. A. Drummond, and Hayes Bros. for grading Linden avenue. That of Hayes Bros. for 21 1/2 cents a cubic foot was accepted. The work, according to stipulations, must be commenced by October 25 and completed by December 1.

PRESS COMMENT.

La Crosse Chronicle: The divorce problem is just where it was before the Episcopal bishops began to discuss it.

Marquette Eagle-Star: Marinette will welcome the ladies of the Women's Federation with open arms, even if most of the delegates are married.

Fond du Lac Reporter: Senator Quarles will go on the stump for Scofield, but Senator Spooner will sit down and remain quiet. Spooner's seat is not in immediate danger.

Menasha Record: The national ticket is not endangered by the retention of the Scofield ticket, but the self-respect of the republicans is retained. You can not fight a campaign on a negative issue. With Scofield and decency to fight for the national republicans can do something.

Sheboygan Journal: Sheboygan's new voting machines will not be of much use after the November election. The wear and tear from voting split tickets will be apt to knock them out.

Madison Journal: Peck's friends feel certain that if they can divert 30,000 votes from the La Follette column of 1902, they will carry him into the governor's chair by a small plurality.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Yes, it might as well be admitted first as last that Gov. La Follette has stood for something in the past and stands for something now. Pick what it is out of this cute little anagram and receive a Grotophorot campaigning button as a prize. Lullaby cifer.

El Paso Herald: Over 700,000 gallons of Scotch whisky was burnt in a fire at Aberdeen the other day, but there will be no shortage in the supply of Scotch whisky as long as Louisville and Peoria have a railroad.

Marshfield Times: With a reputation beyond reproach and a long record of efficient public service, Maj. Scofield is well fitted for the leadership of the conservative republicans of the state and will have the undivided support of the faction which has been declared the regular republican party by the national convention. The nominees of the opera house convention for the other state offices will remain on the ticket and are confident of success. The court decision entitles this ticket to a party position on the official ballot and the name will be the "national republican," a fitting allusion to the authority of the national convention.

TWO BOYS MEET DEATH IN ORPHANS' HOME FIRE

Half the Children in the Institution, Being Ill With Whooping Cough, May Die From Exposure.

Shelbyville, Ill., Oct. 20.—Fire which broke out at an early hour Wednesday morning in the Middleworth children's home in this city resulted in the death of two small boys. Several other inmates of the home were badly injured in their efforts to escape from the burning structure. There was a panic on the stairs among the thirty-two wards of the home.

The dead: Alfred Peterson, 9 years old. Charles Peterson, 11 years old. The two boys of the same name who lost their lives both came from Chicago, it is said. They were not related.

There were thirty-one children sleeping in the upper rooms of the home, which was a three-story frame and brick building. One of the older boys was aroused by the smell of smoke and gave the alarm. The children rushed to the stairways, but before all had escaped the flames and smoke cut off their means of egress and several children reached the ground by leaping from the upper windows to the roof of an extension to the building.

Half of the children were ill with whooping cough, and it is feared that fatalities may result from the forced exposure in scant clothing. Many were hurt in the mad scramble for the stairways, the smaller ones being trampled under foot as the panic-stricken boys rushed down the stairs.

Panic on the Stairs. A little boy awakened to see long tongues of flames licking down toward the beds of his sleeping companions. Shouting to alarm the children sleeping in other parts of the building, the boys tumbled down the stairs. One of them stumbled and fell on the stairs. Instantly those who came after piled up in a fighting, crying mass above him. The doors were reached at last, but not until several were badly injured.

The Yellow Holly

By FERGUS HUME,
Author of "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," Etc.

Copyright, 1905, by G. W. Dillingham Company

"Yes, but you wore a sprig of yellow holly. That was why I recognized you when you were masked."

"How did you know it was I?"

"Because early in the evening you went into a box. I was there talking to the Marchesa Beltrami, to whom the box belonged. You removed your mask, and I had ample opportunity to observe you."

"What reason had you to observe me?" asked Mrs. Ward, just as though she were counsel examining a witness.

"Well," said Ireland, smoothing his face, "you see, I knew Mr. Vane very well. He married a woman of whom I was fond." Derrington shifted restlessly in his chair. "Do not be afraid, Lord Derrington. I do not intend to talk of Rosina Lockwood."

"At present I say nothing," was his lordship's reply, and he watched the two faces before him with close attention.

"You saw me unmask in a certain box," said Mrs. Ward quickly. "Do you mean that after all these years, over thirty years, that you recognize me again? I was a girl then. I am a woman now."

"Quite so. But you have a mole on your forehead just above the left eyebrow. I knew you by that. And then I have a splendid memory for faces, and yours"—Ireland bowed gallantly—"is too beautiful to forget easily."

Mrs. Ward shrugged her shoulders. "It's a most remarkable memory," she said.

"It is, madam," assented Ireland. "My memory was always considered remarkable. And the fact is that I was thinking of the murder almost at the moment I entered the hall. Consequently your face was in my mind's eye. That made the chance of recognizing you more sure. Had I not been thinking of old days I might not have guessed so readily who you were."

"Why were you thinking of the murder then?" asked Derrington.

"Well, my lord, you sent for me to speak with me about George." Mrs. Ward gave a short laugh, and Derrington smiled. "No I was naturally thinking of George; such a thought led to my thinking of his parents, and finally I remembered the circumstance of your son's death, as I thought you might wish to talk of it, and therefore desired to get my memory in order. In this way did I recognize the lady."

"This is all very well," said Mrs. Ward. "You say you recognize me, Mr. Ireland. Is that your name?"

"It is, but your memory is not so good as mine. We met only once. Derrington was not so sure that Mrs. Ward's memory was not good, for he remembered how she had tried to get away before the arrival of Ireland.

"Go on! Go on!" he said irritably. "I wish to know the worst."

"The worst is that I am supposed to have killed Percy Vane," said Mrs. Ward coolly. "So you accuse me of that?" she asked Ireland.

"By no means. But you were at that ball."

"I was, in a blue domino with a sprig of holly at my breast."

"And you were with Mr. Vane?"

"No, I was not."

"You went out with Mr. Vane."

"I did not. It was my sister."

"Your sister?" said Derrington.

"Hah!" and he relapsed into silence.

Mrs. Ward shot a suspicious look at him, but his inscrutable face betrayed nothing.

"I remember," said Ireland in a slow, prosy way, "that there were two Miss Howards at San Remo, at the Hotel d'Angleterre. They were with their father, General Howard. I never met them, but Mr. Vane went frequently to the ball."

"Ireland looked at Derrington. "Did you ever meet Miss Jenny Howard, my lord?" he asked.

"No," said Derrington, "but I have known Mrs. Ward for many, many years."

"Quite twenty," said Mrs. Ward, with an artificial laugh. "We grow old, Mr. Ireland. Lord Derrington never met my sister. Why you ask I cannot conceive."

"Because Lord Derrington is under a wrong impression. He has met your sister, and in this very room."

"I beg your pardon," began Derrington.

"I—"

Ireland cut him short. "She called to see you here about the renewal of the Amelia square lease."

"Miss Bull?" said his lordship. "I thought there was something familiar about her face. So Miss Bull is Mrs. Ward's sister?"

"She told me so herself," was Ireland's reply.

CHAPTER XVI.

BRENDON was much astonished a day or two later to receive an invitation to dine with his grandfather. As George had fought the old man with his own weapons and had come off victor, he did not expect to be pardoned.

But in this he was wrong. Derrington, sickened with Walter's milk and water ways, saw in Brendon a worthy successor who would be able to hold his own in will and word and would shed fresh luster on the house.

However astonished, Brendon was too much a man of the world to reveal his feelings. On the evening in question he presented himself at the mansion in St. Giles square, scrupulously groomed and brushed. Derrington looked approvingly on his dress, which set off a handsome figure to advantage, and he unbent so far as to advance to George with outstretched hand.

"We had rather a rough interview, George," he said, "so I have invited you to smoke the pipe of peace."

Brendon shook the old man's hand quietly, but without much enthusiasm. He could not conjecture what Derrington meant by behaving in a way so different from that he usually adopted. He lost felt the slack hand clasp and winced on feeling the want of response in Brendon's face.

"Dinner will be ready soon," said the old lord, waving Brendon to a seat; "only our two selves. I wish to consult you."

"Consult me?" George could not keep the astonishment out of his face.

"It's rather late in the day, is it not?" remarked Derrington dryly. "But you see I am old, George, and have not much time to spare. Yes, I wish you to consult with me after dinner about—but that can come in the course of our conversation. Meantime let us talk of anything you like."

"The weather, sir?"

"No, confound you," snapped Derrington, with a dash of his old irritability; "talk of wine, wit and women if you like, but spare me platitudes."

Brendon stared at his shoes and smiled under his mustache. "I do not think I can say anything very original about the subjects you mention," he said quietly.

"Talk of Miss Ward then. You can be original on that point."

Brendon would rather not have mentioned Dorothy, but he was quite determined to show his grandfather that he fully intended to marry his lady-love and that he was not afraid to speak his mind. "I do not fancy that there is anything particularly original in a love story. I met Miss Ward some three years before I have loved her ever since and we will marry when—"

"There, there," interrupted Derrington, waving his hand, "let us not get on to that subject as yet. We can talk of it after dinner. In fact, you may as well know that I asked you here to discuss your position. We must have an understanding."

"I think you must intend it to be a pleasant one," said Brendon, "as you have asked me to dinner."

It struck Brendon that his grandfather looked old and very haggard. He had lost his fresh color, his eyes were sunken and the defiant curl was out of his enormous mustache. He moved slowly toward the door, and George felt sorry to see him so lonely.

Moved by a sudden impulse, George moved to the elder man's side and offered his arm. The footman was holding the door open, and Derrington could not express, even by a look, the satisfaction he felt. With a surly grunt he took Brendon's arm, but George guessed by the warm pressure that Derrington was pleased.

It was quite a banquet for Derrington lived in a most expensive manner. The table was a round one, laid with exquisite taste, and was placed under a kind of velvet tent, which shut off the rest of the room and made the meal particularly cozy. It was perfect, and after the somewhat stale food of his lodgings George enjoyed the meal greatly. Derrington himself did not eat much, but he took great pleasure in seeing George enjoy his viands.

After the dinner, during which the old lord was confirmed in his good opinion of George, he said: "There's coffee in the library, and we can talk over our cigars. Up I get, George, your arm."

He not only asked for it, but took it with marked pleasure. The footman in attendance returned to the servants' hall to state that the "old devil" (the domestic name for Derrington) had quite taken to the new young gentleman.

Meanwhile Brendon was seated in a comfortable chair enjoying one of the best cigars he had ever placed between his lips. At his elbow smoked a cup of Mocha, and in the chair on the left sat George.

BRONZE MEDALS REWARDS MADE FOR TRUE HEROES

Carnegie Commission Thinks the Emblems
Should Be Prized for Themselves...
Interest Amounts to Thousands.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 20.—The Carnegie hero fund commission met Wednesday noon. It was learned that after the disaster to the steamer Gen. Slocum last June 21, F. M. Wilmut, secretary of the commission, was sent to New York and conferred with Jacob H. Schiff to aid the sufferers under the fifth clause of the Carnegie hero fund. Mr. Schiff advised Mr. Wilmut that the commission having in charge the funds to aid the Slocum sufferers did not need any assistance. Still the Carnegie people are ready to help.

Report Limits Fund.
Thomas Lynch, president of the H. C. Frick company, made a report for the committee on organization limiting the fund as follows:

"First—To acts on which conclusive evidence may be obtained showing that the person performing the act voluntarily risked his own life in saving or attempting to save the life of a fellow being, or who voluntarily has sacrificed himself in a heroic manner for the benefit of others."

"Second—Such acts must have been performed by persons the nature of whose duties in following their regular vocations does not necessarily require them to perform such acts."

"Third—Such acts must have been performed in the United States of America, the Dominion of Canada, the colony of Newfoundland, and the waters thereof."

"Fourth—Such acts must have been performed on or after April 15, 1904."

"Fifth—Heroic acts may be brought to the attention of the commission by direct application or through the public press."

About $50,000 Accrued.
The report of the financial committee, submitted by John B. Jackson, chairman, showed that the $50,000,000 worth of gold 5 per cent interest-bearing first mortgage bonds of the United States Steel corporation were registered in the name of the commission May 13 last. About $50,000 interest already has accrued on the bonds.

The medal of honor to be selected by the commission probably will be of bronze or silver. It is not the desire of the committee to have gold medals, on account of their intrinsic value. It is argued that the medal is a symbol to commemorate the deed, and if it is of small value it will be prized all the more and be kept by the recipient.

Seven cases have been investigated by the officers of the commission and fifty-two additional ones are now under investigation. Of the seven cases investigated one has been found which will not come under the scope of the fund. One of the remaining six the executive committee will likely recommend for medal and probably the other two.

been robbed and swindled by the men in whom they put the greatest trust are naturally vehement in their demands for swift and immediate punishment upon the wrongdoers."

The speaker declared that national banks never failed if the officers obeyed the law and refused to make loans in excess of the 10 per cent limit. The operations of the bank act were fully explained.

Hartman Baker discussed the relation of bankers to politics and said only such a man as had the confidence of the bankers could be elected president of the United States.

The following officers were elected: President—E. D. Durham, Orange, Ill.

Chairman—executive committee—Nelson P. Green, Tolson, Ill.

Secretary—P. P. Judson, Chicago. Treasurer—John S. Little, Rushville, Ill.

CHURCH HOLDS CURE FOR LABOR TROUBLES

Conversion to Christianity Held as Remedy for Clashes Between Workmen and Employers.

Boston, Oct. 20.—Conversion to Christianity is the remedy for labor disturbances in the opinion of the house of bishops of the Episcopal church, which adopted resolutions advocating church work with the object of lessening "prejudice and passion" on the side of labor and "covetousness and the sin which proceed from the inordinate love of riches" on the side of capital. The following is an abstract of the resolutions:

"The causes of the recent labor disturbances are not so much economical as moral. The strike usually begins in mutual distrust, and in these cases there is nothing for it, so far as the church is concerned, except conversion. The church can help to remove the moral causes of industrial strife by bringing capital and labor, different members of her family, into better acquaintance. Thus a serious social responsibility rests on every Christian citizen, and especially on the Christian minister."

"The question of the closed shop is like that of the closed church of Puritan days. The laborer has learned from the capitalist to despise order and break law. He has learned from the churchman to pursue the dissenter with malice and violence."

The report is signed by Henry C. Potter, William Lawrence, Charles P. Anderson, R. H. McKim, George M. Hodges, C. D. Williams, Samuel Mather and Jacob Rills.

A resolution in the house of deputies designed to compromise the differences between the two branches of the convention on the remarriage question, was put over. A request from several dioceses to be allowed to use the revised version of the Bible in services was refused in the house of deputies. The high church men were the winners on this point. The convention will adjourn next Wednesday.

New Aluminum Alloy Made.
After numerous experiments and trials an alloy of aluminum has been made with which nails, staples and tacks can be made to compete with copper. Among other advantages claimed for the new material is that it is not affected by the weather and will not deteriorate.

TRIBES CAN COLLECT DUTIES

Goods Shipped Into Indian Territory
Subject to Tax.

South McAlester, I. T., Oct. 20.—The United States court of appeals here has rendered an opinion that the tribal governments could collect tax on goods imported into the Indian territory. The merchants had resisted the payment of taxes on the ground that the Indian governments had lost jurisdiction over incorporated cities and towns, and secured an injunction restraining the Indian officials from collecting the tax. The opinion of the court of appeals reverses the decision of the district court and is to the effect that the tax can be collected on all merchandise shipped into Indian territory. The case will be appealed to a higher federal court, and in the meantime no taxes will be collected pending the final decision.

DIVORCE

The divorce evil is eating away at the vitals of the home.—Bishop E. G. Andrews.

Polygamy comprehends a group of wives at one time while divorce simply means driving them in tandem.—W. Bourke Cockran.

There is a blighting social scourge. It is the fearfully increasing number of divorce mills in the United States. These mills are slowly but surely grinding the domestic altars of the nation.—Charles G. Dwyer.

It is the saddest thing. Women never learn anything about housekeeping and instead of attending to household matters after marriage they are without interest to them. They prink up and parade around, and then the men prink up and parade around and trouble follows. It ends in the divorce court.—Mrs. Hetty Green.

COMPTROLLER TELLS REASON FOR FAILURES

Dishonesty of Bank Officials and Ignoring of Laws Declared to Cause
Most of the Disasters.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 20.—Admitting that in the great majority of bank failures the officers of the wrecked concerns were guilty of criminal acts, William Barret Ridgely, comptroller of the currency, delivered a strong address on bank examinations and failures at the session of the Illinois Bankers' association.

Relative to bank failures Mr. Ridgely said:

"In the great majority of failures, the officers have been guilty of criminal acts. It is charges and rumors, in regard to these matters which produce the greatest feeling and excitement. People feel that they have
